

News and Views . . .

and what have you

by BOB CRAIG

With Thanksgiving tomorrow this is a good time to stop and think of all of the things that each of us have to be thankful for.

While we tend to think that things are not as good as they could be or that we are having a rough time the following figures compiled by Willard Y. Graff, Superintendent of Schools of Springfield, Missouri, and published in the Marcelline (Mo.) News. Here is his analysis of what Hamlin would be like if the whole world population were reduced, proportionately, to the size of Hamlin.

Using the figure of 4,000 for Hamlin for simplification, 6 per cent of the population would be Americans, but they would receive one-half the income of the city.

If, in imagination, the present population of the world of approximately 2,750,000,000 were compressed into a single town of 4,000 people, the following picture of contrasts could be seen:

240 persons would represent the U.S.A.

3760 would represent all others.

240 Americans would receive one-half the income of the town.

3760 other people would share the other one-half.

144 Americans would be church members.

96 would belong to no church.

1200 of town's population would be Christians.

2800 would have other beliefs.

320 of the town's population would be card-carrying communists.

1480 would be under communist domination.

1212 would be white.

2788 would non-white.

The 240 Americans would have a life expectancy of 70.

The expectancy of all others would average under 40.

Of the town's total supply, the average American would have 15 times as much as the average other person.

The Americans would produce 16 1/2 per cent of the town's food supply and would consume 15 percent, storing the 1 1/2 percent. Most of the 3760 non-Americans would be hungry most of the time.

The 240 Americans would have:

12 times as much electricity.

22 times as much coal

21 times as much oil

50 times as much steel

50 times as much general equipment—

As the 3760 remaining in the town.

The lowest income group of Americans would be better off than the average of the other 3760.

Panels Discuss Raising Guar and Livestock Feeding Here Monday

Raising guar for commercial market and livestock feeding in west Texas were topics of panel discussions to Hamlin area farmers in the high school cafeteria here Monday night sponsored by the Agriculture & Livestock Committee of the Board of Community Development, R. L. McClung, chairman.

Heading the panel on guar was Lester Brooks, superintendent, Texas Agricultural Station, Iowa Park. Others on the panel were: Paul Bell, Rule seed dealer and Representative of the Stein, Hall Co., Inc. of New York who uses guar seed industrially; John Stewart, Representative of General Mills, Inc. of Kenedy, Texas, who also uses guar seed for feed and industrially; and B. O. Vernon, Rule farmer who has raised guar commercially for the past three years.

Paul Marion, superintendent, Texas Agricultural Experimental Station, Spur, headed the panel on the livestock feeding program. He has conducted extensive research in livestock feeding common for west Texas area. Others on the panel were: Loyan Walker, Manager, West Texas Chamber of Commerce Agriculture & Livestock Department; Fred B. Moore, Jr., Hamlin Feed Mill & Elevator owner; and H. S. Stovall, local farmer and rancher who is feeding some 500 head of cattle under the program.

Lester Brooks told of the results of research his station experienced in raising guar. He explained that guar was drought resistant, resistant to cotton root rot, it has high yields of forage and seed, it increases yield of following crops, has valuable livestock feed, adaptable to combine, many industrial uses, ready market for seed, and there is plenty of seed available.

Paul Bell told of his company's experiences in buying guar seed for commercial market. He explained that there were three grades with a 25 cents per hundred reduction in market price. The seed was purchased from farmers at the bulk price of $3.40 per hundred or $3.75 per hundred sacked. He said the company he represented, Stein, Hall Co., Inc., has many industrial uses for the gum base from guar seed. The company uses it for pharmaceutical supplies, drugs, cosmetics, textile manufacturing, etc., and that the market is steady.

John Stewart explained that his company also has many industrial uses for the guar seed. Primarily, it is used in livestock feeding with a high protein content. Stewart said his company also purchased 90% of their guar seed from India and Pakistan.

B. O. Vernon told of his experiences with guar, both as a soil builder and for the commercial market. He said his following crop increase in yield more than paid for the expense in planting and that the market for seed was an added bonus. He plans to increase his acreage next year.

Paul Marion told of the opportunities offered in cattle feeding for profits in West Texas. He said there is enough grain and roughage produced in West Texas to feed 5,563,756 cattle for marketable slaughter but there is only 700,000 head on the program. This means that scrub cattle, and feed are being shipped out of the state, fattened, processed, and shipped back. All the profits are being made outside the state. This could be produced locally and all the shipping costs, etc. would stay at home if more people were interested in the feeder program.

Loyan Walker told of other states in the Corn Belt area who have been feeding livestock for fifty years or more. He said most west Texas towns are constantly trying to promote industry for their community because it would mean payrolls and more money in circulation but are forgetting the industry in their own 'back yard.'

Fred B. Moore, Jr., told of his company's efforts to encourage lot feeding by underwriting any loss by participants provided they use his recommendations. He said some 1000 head are on the program now.

H. S. Stovall, local farmer and rancher told of his experience with the cattle he now has on the feeding program. He has had them on the feed lot some six weeks and estimated their gain at over 150 pounds each.

Hamlin Future Farmers of America boys handled the arrangements and provided coffee and doughnuts. T. C. Blankinship, Vocational Agriculture teacher, conducted extensive research to provide answers for both programs and help set up the panel for discussion. He was assisted by Melburn Wink, Asst. Ag teacher.

'Help Me, Mother'

Ed. Note: This is the last in a series of four articles which originally appeared in the Cosmopolitan Magazine, August, 1953, and which are reprinted here with permission of that magazine. Entitled 'Help Me, Mother, Help Me,' the following was written by Dorothy Virginia Smith.

Almost a month had passed since we had found the children had tuberculosis. Now there were four of us at the dinner table, Don, Sherry, Ted and myself. Two were still upstairs.

Every Wednesday night I forced myself away from my children to go to church, and with a lump in my throat so big I could hardly swallow. I would join the rest of the congregation in calling on Mary for help.

Finally the six tortuous weeks of streptomycin came to an end. The baby's temperature chart showed a normal or sub-normal status for the entire time, so she was allowed out of isolation. She was now going on five months old and was beginning to take an active interest in everything around her. Now Don and Sherry were allowed to play with her, and she was delighted.

Robby's shots were stopped, too, but he was not taken out of isolation. He was still running a low-grade fever. His backside was so sore he couldn't move, and he slept on his stomach with his feet in the air, to keep the sheet off his body. His temperature never went below 99.

We were beginning to feel we were making progress, when Don came down with the measles. The measles were a disease the children were not supposed to get. They have a tendency to make an arrested case of tuberculosis active again. A week later, Sherry got them, then the baby, and then, the crowning blow, Robby. So, for four weeks we battled the measles. None had any ill effects except the one who could stand it least—Robby. He developed a terrible bronchial cough that shot his temperature to 103. Numerous drugs were tried on him but to no avail. The only alternative was to go back to streptomycin, so once again he had to have two shots a day in his still sore behind. Fortunately, he took the shots for only two weeks this time.

It was just about this time that Hopalong Cassidy came to town. I happened to mention to my brother, Bob, how much Robby would love to see him.

I almost dropped the telephone when my brother called me the next day to tell me Hopalong Cassidy was coming out to see Robby. Bob had simply called Hoppy, told him the story, and Hoppy had immediately said yes. I think Ted and I were just as excited as the children. The two older children donned their cowboy outfits and raced outside to spread the news. Within minutes, our front yard was swarming with miniature cowboys, and cowgirls, and even adults.

When the police escort drove up out front and behind it a big green convertible with Hopalong Cassidy in full cowboy regalia, I held Robby up to the window and his eyes shone with a sparkle we had thought was lost forever. I raced downstairs, and there stood Hoppy.

Hoppy took my hand. "Where is this little boy of yours, Mrs. Smith?" He went right upstairs, spurs a-jangling, and stopped in Robby's doorway. "Didn't think I'd come to see you, did you, pardner?" He smiled at Robby, and Robby smiled incredulously back. Robby's silence must have prompted Hoppy to say, "Do you know who I am?" Robby nodded his head and grinned. "Yes, Hopalong Cassidy." With that, Hoppy pulled his two guns out of their holsters and handed them to Rob. Robby was bursting. Don and Sherry stood by the bed, their mouths open. Germs were completely disregarded for the first time in months. Hoppy stayed about twenty minutes, laughing and chatting, and then he leaned over and took Robby's thin little hand in his. "Robby," he said very seriously, "your mommy and daddy are trying to get you well. You do everything they say—eat your meals and drink lots of milk so you can get big and strong and grow up to be a cowboy just like me. Will you do that for Hoppy?" Robby promised. A few minutes after Hoppy left, Robby called me. "Mommy," he said, "I want a glass of milk."

The convalescent period went on, and Robby's low-grade fever still continued. He had been in bed four months now, and he was nothing but skin and bones. But still I felt that everything was a little better, that we were holding our own. Then one morning Sherry said a mosquito had bitten her. One look at her "mosquito bite," and I knew we were in for it again. Now we had chicken pox. Don had had it, fortunately, but the other three children staggered their attacks as perfectly as the incubation period would allow. Two weeks after Sherry, the baby broke out, and then Robby. But somehow we got through it, and the children seemed none the worse.

Then Robby's temperature came to normal! At first I had been fat as a butterball throughout her convalescence, and we were delighted with her progress. Robby was now allowed to play quietly outside. All the children were firmly on the road back to health, and we thanked God the most terrible year of our lives was over.

I suppose you are wondering what happened to Beulah. Well, the Health Department sent her to a tuberculosis sanatorium. In July, 1952, she was discharged, though she is still under health-department supervision and cannot work. I have thought about her a lot and wondered if she realized what she did to us. Do I feel bitter toward her? No, nor did I from the beginning. I could have felt murder for her—but how could I and still ask God to have mercy on my children? For I had been as careless as Beulah. Had I been more alert and had her examined before hiring her, this would have never happened.

Our four children are all completely cured now. Robby was pronounced cured almost a year from the day on which he was sent home from the hospital a dying boy. The bloom of health is on his cheeks, his arms and legs have filled out. Don and Sherry have almost forgotten their siege of TB and are so full of pep that it is hard to get them into the house even to eat. But I still see that they get their proper rest and the most nourishing food. This is my second chance, and I must not fail again. For there is always the danger of a recurrence. The children all must be X-rayed every year.

So, my story ends. Ted and I look to the future with a new understanding of our fellow men, a deeper love for each other, and an undying gratitude to God and to all those who helped us in the battle for our children's lives.

prayerful thanks, not only for the food on our table, but more importantly, for those freedoms we hold so dear . . freedoms our forefathers sought and won in the new land, America. Our Country has come a long, hard way since the day of that first meager harvest in 1621 . . . to truly become the "Land of Plenty" and the "Home of the Free." Let us pray it will always be!

Kenneth Lafferty Resigns as Area Scout Executive

Nib Shaw, President of the Chisholm Trail Council, Boy Scouts of America, announced at the Executive Board Meeting November 22 the resignation of Kenneth Lafferty as District Scout Executive. Lafferty has been working as District Scout Executive for the Northern District of the Council for the past 4½ years.

Lafferty will assume the responsibilities of District Scout Executive in the Arbuckle Council, Boy Scouts of America with headquarters at Ardmore, Oklahoma. He will reside in Ada, Oklahoma and will work in the Harry Miller District of that Council.

He and his family are members of St. John Methodist Church of Stamford. The Laffertys have two children, Jan and Mike both of whom are in the Stamford Public Schools.

The Hamlin High School Pied Piper Band, The Marching Green, marched its way to two first divisions at the annual marching contest in San Angelo.

Each band who entered the contest was subject to tedious inspection. They were rated according to their appearance, discipline, and ability to react to oral commands. Following this the band presented their marching performance. This rating was composed of playing ability, alertness, uniformity, and alignment.

A color film with a sound track was taken during the performance. This will be shown in the next few weeks. For the past few weeks the band has had a definite unity not seen before this year. This unity, together with the fine direction of band director, Tim Jones, reaped its highest merits with the winning of two first divisions at the contest.

Darla Harkey and David Bonds were revealed "Football Sweetheart" and "Football Hero" at the annual HHS Football Banquet held Friday night in the high school gym. Nina Jean was toastmistress for the occasion. Cliff Drummond gave the invocation, and Jennie Law gave the welcome. The response was given by Mike Bond.

The entertainment was presented by a singing group, The Frantic Five, composed of Danny McCurdy, Larry Marshall, Deny Jenkins and Mac Mitchell all of Abilene.

Bill Taegel of Abilene, and youth director for the First Methodist Church of Hamlin, presented an inspiring speech entitled "Are You Prepared for the Winter?"

Appreciation gifts were presented to Coaches Andrews, Vaughn, Laminack and Farmer. Others receiving gifts in appreciation for their work either during the football season or in preparation for the banquet were Principal B. V. Newberry, Miss Mitchell, Mr. Jones and Mrs. Simmons.

Groups of nominees from each of the four classes were selected last week to represent their class as nominees as "Most Representative Boy and Girl." Nominees were: Wayne Boatright and Ann Rabjohn, senior class; Jeanette Jenkins and Robert Woodruff, junior class; Mary Debbs Rountree and Andy French, sophomore class; and Diane Bond and Jimmy Inzer, freshman class.

A run-off was held between the senior and junior nominees. The results of this run-off will be revealed at the end of the year when the yearbooks arrive.

"Thanksgiving holidays will begin Wednesday afternoon at 2:45," states high school principal Newberry. The holidays will last through the week-end and school will resume the following Monday. Report cards will be issued on Tuesday after classes resume.

Despite the millions of vehicle miles covered annually by Texas school buses and despite the millions of young passengers they transport annually, only two have been involved in the Department of Public Safety's 20-year-old list of Texas' worst traffic tragedies. The list includes crashes which took six or more lives each. One major truck-school bus crash, which took eight lives, was reported in Delta County on May 4, 1950.

third period to trail the rest of the game.

Zoan Winegeart led the Piperettes with 18 points on four field goals and 10 free throws. She was followed by Jeannette Jenkins with 11 points on 3 goals and five free shots.

S. C. FERGUSON, JR., NAMED CO-MANAGER OF PCA OFFICE

The appointment of S. C. Ferguson Jr., of Hamlin, as associate manager of the Anson office of Stamford Production Credit Association has been announced by J. L. Hill Jr., general manager of the Association. Ferguson will assume his new duties December 1, first going to the Central Office in Stamford for preliminary training. He will begin work in the Anson office about January 1, 1961, where he will assume co-management duties with M. E. Carothers of Anson.

Ferguson is a native of Hamlin and is the son of S. C. Ferguson Sr. and the late Mrs. Ferguson. He is married to the former Inez Baggett and they have three children, Sammy, 10; Jana, 9; and Jean, 7. They reside on their farm two miles east of Hamlin, where they will continue to live, as Mrs. Ferguson teaches in Hamlin Junior High School.

Ferguson is a graduate of Texas A&M College. He also served three years and three months in the United States navy, where he held a commission of Ensign. Since release from active duty he has been promoted to Lieutenant in the U. S. Naval Reserve.

Since 1947 Ferguson has been engaged in farming in the Hamlin area; he was employed for a two year period by the Hamlin Co-op Mill, and for the past four years has been employed by the Farmers Home Administration, first as Emergency Supervisor, later as Assistant County Supervisor and presently as County Supervisor with offices in Aspermont, Texas.

He is a member of the First Baptist Church of Hamlin, the Order of the Eastern Star and the Masonic Lodge.

Texas traffic crashes of all types have averaged over 271,000 each year for the past five years.

The deadliest traffic crashes in two different types of highway tragedies in Texas occurred within 15 miles of each other, although 20 years apart, near the city of Alamo, in the Lower Rio Grande Valley. In March, 1940, a train-truck collision at Alamo, on U. S. 83, killed 29 persons. That is still the worst single highway crash in Texas history, and ranks as the second worst of its type in the entire United States. In February, 1959, some dozen miles southwest of Alamo on U. S. 281, 10 persons were killed in the smashing crash of two passenger cars, the greatest toll in the collision of two passenger cars in Texas history.

Hamlin Men Finish Eight-Week Army Postal Course

FORT BENJAMIN HARRISON, IND.—Three Army men from Hamlin, Texas, completed the eight-week postal operations course at The Adjutant General's School, Fort Benjamin Harrison, Ind., Oct. 7.

The men were trained in the techniques and procedures employed in the operation of an Army post office.

Pvt. Thomas R. Rowland, 19, whose wife, Jackie, and parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Rowland, live at 1336 South Central, entered the Army last June and received basic training at Fort Hood, Tex. He is a 1960 graduate of Hamlin High School.

Pvt. William H. Brown, 19, son of Mrs. Thresa Brown, Route 2, entered the Army last June and received basic combat training at Fort Hood, Tex. A 1959 graduate of Oscar DePriest High School, Brown attended Prairie View A & M College.

Pvt. James D. Hester, 22, son of Mr. and Mrs. Helon Hester, Route 3, entered the Army last June and received basic combat training at Fort Hood, Texas. He is a 1958 graduate of Hamlin High School.

Another "most terrible" highway crash in Texas, this time in the commercial bus classification, was recorded on U. S. 81, near Waco, McLennan County, on August 4, 1952, when 28 persons died.

'DAVID AND BATHSHEBA' OPENS FRIDAY AT FERGUSON THEATRE

"David and Bathsheba," the compelling Technicolor drama of the world's most forbidden love, produced by Darryl F. Zanuck, starring Gregory Peck and Susan Hayward, a Biblical story yet to be equalled for sheer emotional power, opens Friday at the Ferguson Theatre.

The forceful beauty of the greatest love story of all time, taken from the greatest book of all time has been excitingly etched on the screen in stunning Technicolor, presenting Gregory Peck and Susan Hayward in two of the finest acting performances of their long and distinguished careers.

The list of featured players is equal to the scope and magnitude of the picture. Raymond Massey, giant of the Broadway stage is seen as Nathan, the prophet; Kieron Moore, British screen star plays the captain Uriah; Jane Meadows, T. V. favorite is David's first wife, Michal, and Francis X. Bushman, matinee idol of days gone by is the wise King Saul.

Zanuck was faced with two paths when planning the picture. The first one, an obvious one, was to catch only the surface tensions of this warm and violent story of illicit love between two of the Bible's most colorful personalities. The other was to bring to life the conflict and vibrancy of the complex characters whose torrid liaison brought them to the brink of degradation.

With a sure hand Zanuck sent his director, Henry King, down the road of "most" resistance, and achieved a rare moment in film-making, at once romantic and spectacular, and yet a penetrating observation of passionate natures struggling against the convention of the day.

'Mystery Farm' Owned by Mrs. Fed Britton

The "mystery farm" picture which was published in the November 17 issue of the Herald was identified as Mrs. Fed Britton's farm located three and one half miles southwest of Hamlin. The farm consists of 280 acres and has been operated by Mr. and Mrs. E. C. (Cur) Pendley for the past 15 years. The major crops are cotton and milo. Mrs. Britton has owned the place for over years but has never lived there. The Pendley's have one daughter, Charlene. They are members of the First Baptist Church.
